During 1980, coal exports from the United States set a new record of 89.9 million tons. That was an increase of more than 25 million tons over the preceding year. Overseas exports of both metallurgical and steam coal totalled 72.8 million tons—an increase of 27 million tons over 1979 shipments.

West Virginia followed the national trend, posting its largest export tonnage since 1973. Total coal exports from the Mountain State in 1980 were 44,125,000—an increase of nearly 14 million tons. The state's share of total exports climbed to 49.2% assuring West Virginia's position as the nation's leading coal exporter.

Highlighting U. S. overseas exports was the dramatic rise in steam coal shipments. These exports totalled slightly more than 16 million tons in 1980, almost six and onehalf times the previous record set in 1979.

The average value of 1980 exported coal, including freight to port, was $50.31 per ton for a total export value of $4.5 billion—a significant contribution to easing the nation's trade balance problem.

In 1980, Japan edged ahead of Canada to become the largest importer of U. S. coals, increasing its tonnage to 22.9 million, up from 15.6 million in 1979. Canada dropped from 19.7 million tons in 1979 to 17.0 million tons in 1980. The European Economic Community received 32.3 million tons of U. S. coal—nearly double its shipments of a year earlier.

Japan's imports of metallurgical coal accounted for its leap to the top position. In 1980, U. S. exports of met coal to Japan totalled 21.9 million tons compared to 15.2 million tons in 1979. Canada was the next largest customer for met coal, importing 6.3 million tons in 1980 compared to 7.5 million tons in 1979. The EEC increased its imports of U. S. met coal in 1980 to 20.5 million tons, up from 16.7 the preceding year.

Most of the nation's coal exports continue to be shipped through Virginia's Tidewater ports. In 1980, 57% of all exported coal went through Hampton Roads. Baltimore was the port of exit for 13% of the coal exports, followed by New Orleans with 4%, Mobile with 3%, Philadelphia with 1%, and all other Great Lakes, Gulf and West Coast ports with a combined 18%.

The EEC was the largest importer of steam coal, purchasing 11.8 million tons in 1980 compared to 1.4 in 1979. Japan increased its imports of U. S. steam coal to 1.03 million tons from .2 in 1979. Canada decreased its imports from 11.6 million tons in 1979 to 10.8 in 1980.

POPULATION PYRAMIDS AND DATA ANALYSIS

A population pyramid is a way to graphically represent age and sex characteristics of a population. Because computer graphics programs can produce population pyramids quickly and economically, they are often used as tools for analysis.

This type of graph makes it easier to compare population characteristics of different time periods for different geographic regions. A population pyramid displays age data vertically in 5 year age cohorts up to age 75 and over. Each horizontal bar represents the percent of the population in that age group. Traditionally, the male population is shown on the left side of the pyramid and the female population is shown on the right side. A population pyramid not only indicates the percent of people who are in a particular age group at the present time, but also the percent that will likely be in that group in future years. The various shapes of population pyramids reflect changes in fertility, mortality, and migration.

The triangular shape of the population pyramid for West Virginia in 1950 indicates a growing population and a high birth rate. This shape is typical of less developed countries. This pattern reflects a population normally distributed through all age cohorts: there are more people of younger ages relative to other cohorts since death reduces the upper bars.

A comparison of state population pyramids for several time periods shows much about past migration patterns. States are sensitive to migration trends whereas countries such as the United States are not. For example, the population pyramid for West Virginia in 1960 shows a decrease in two age groups, 20 to 24 and 25 to 29. This decrease indicates a selective migration out of the State among young persons. Such a migration often reflects a lack of economic/employment opportunities. This same pyramid shows the beginning of a declining birth rate and an increase in the percent of the population age 75 and over.

The population pyramid for West Virginia in 1970 shows a continuation of these same patterns. The post-war baby-boom, the cohort born between 1946 and 1964, is clearly visible in the lower bars. The pyramid also shows that the birth rate for the State continues to decline and the elderly segment increases. Furthermore, the graph shows that above the age of 65, women live longer than men.

West Virginia's population trends are now similar to national population trends. The population pyramid for West Virginia in 1980 looks very much like the pyramid for the United States in 1980. The shorter bars at the bottom show that the birth rate has been declining for about 15 years. The small bar at age 45-49 reflects the low birth rate during the Depression years.

Although the Black and White population pyramids for 1980 appear vastly different, they actually reflect the same trends that occured in the State's total population. While the effects of the baby-boom and out-migration are obvious in the White population pyramid, they are much more pronounced in the Black population pyramid. Both pyramids display a large proportion of older persons.

The United States is often referred to as an aging population because the elderly segment of our society is constantly increasing. The same could be said of West Virginia. Both the proportion and the total number of older persons are growing at an increasingly rapid rate. If the current low birth rates continue, it is likely that the proportion of older people within West Virginia will continue to increase. Therefore, there will be proportionately fewer people in the prime productive years compared to the number of older persons. Such trends have implications for the economic viability of the State and its social programs.

SELECTED 1980 HOUSING DATA RELEASED IN SPECIAL REPORT

In the supplementary housing report HC80-S1-1 recently released by the Census Bureau (see page 1), Putnam, Monongalia, and Kanawha counties are shown as having the highest median $ values for owner occupied housing units in West Virginia. Table 1, which was taken from the Bureau's report, gives the median $ values for owner occupied housing units in these three counties as $52500, $50200, and $47800 respectively (see last page). The counties having the lowest median $ value for owner occupied units are McDowell, Webster, and Clay with median values of $15600, $21300, and $21700 respectively. The shade map in Figure 1 shows that the majority of counties fall into the $30000-$39900 median value range.

The shade map presented in Figure 2 displays the distribution of year-round housing units lacking complete plumbing facilities for exclusive use. Most of the counties are in the 5.0% to 9.9% category. Further study of the map reveals a large number of counties in the 15.0% and over category. Hancock county (1.3%) has the lowest percent of year-round housing units lacking complete plumbing facilities for exclusive use, while Webster has the highest percentage (24.6%).

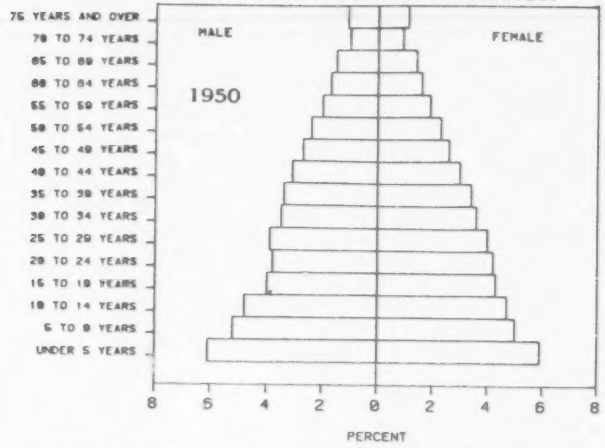
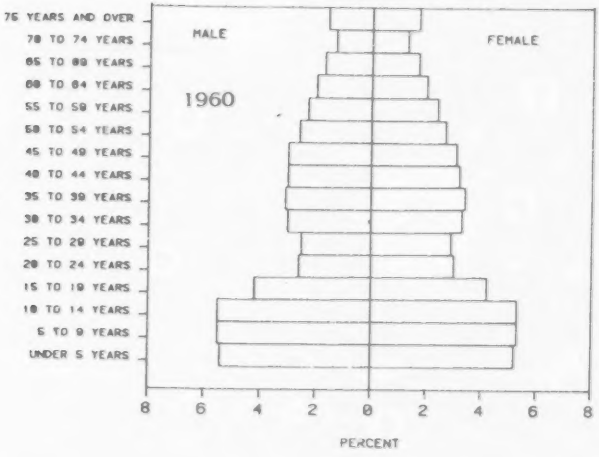
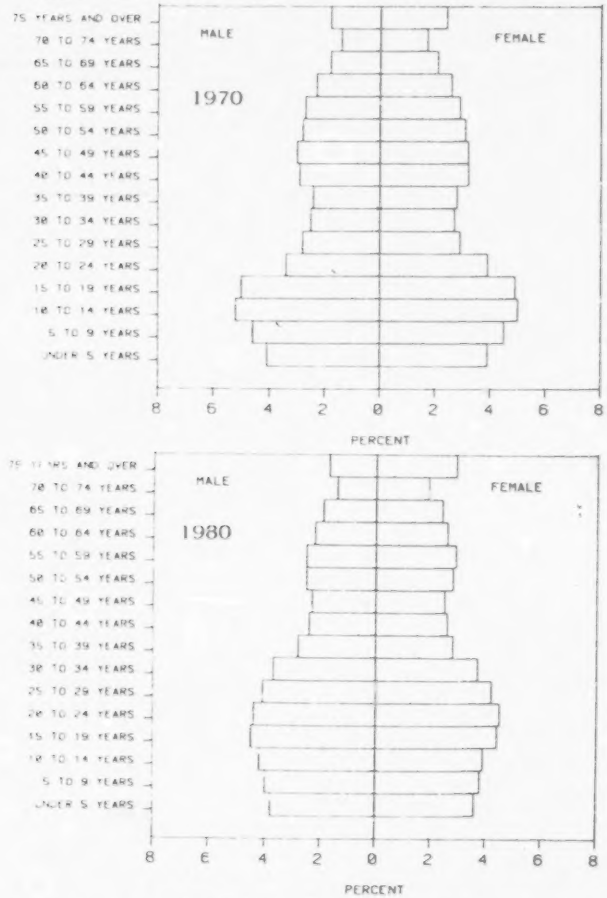
WEST VIRGINIA AGE/SEX DISTRIBUTION





WEST VIRGINIA AGE/SEX DISTRIBUTION



Population analysis by age, particularly age cohorts, is important for government planners and policy makers. The proportional sizes of the various age groups and trends in age cohort groupings are used in calculating intercensal population estimates and projections. These figures, in turn, are used to determine the size of potential populations in areas such as education, health care, housing, transportation, and energy. Economic trends and outlooks can also be predicted when the age composition of a population is known and based on the potential manpower labor force populations.

In sum, services required and provided to a state or county are a reflection of that state's or county's population age structure. Any changes in the age structure through birth, death, and migration will trigger corresponding changes in government services.

TAXES

BUSINESS TAX

The State of West Virginia imposes three primary business taxes: the Business and Occupation Tax, the Carrier Income Tax and the Corporate Net Income Tax.

These general business taxes are interrelated and contain provisions for credits on the corporate net income tax for those corporations which have filed and paid either the Business and Occupation Tax or the Carrier Income Tax.

These credits offset the Corporate Net Income Tax liability in an amount equal to the payment of Business and Occupation Tax or Carrier Income Tax paid in that year. Therefore, the Corporate Income Tax liability usually results in a net income liability only under one of the three primary business taxes.

A. The Business and Occupation Tax is an annual privilege tax levied against persons engaged in business and other activities in West Virginia. The tax is measured by the application of rates against the gross value of products, gross sales or gross income, in accordance with the classification of business activitiy or activities in which the taxpayer is engaged.

It should be noted that West Virginia has not changed the rate of the Business and Occupation Tax for the manufacturing classification of business activity since April 1971. This indicates West Virginia's commitment to utilize alternative revenue producing sources besides the manufacturing rates of the Business and Occupation Tax.

West Virginia has a commitment to pilot demonstration and research projects for the gasification and liquefaction of coal. This is evidenced by an exemption from the Business and Occupation Tax which Governor Rockefeller was instrumental in obtaining for such eligible projects during the 1978 session of the West Virginia Legislature.

B. The Corporate Net Income Tax is a tax imposed for each taxable year at the rate of six percent per annum on the West Virginia taxable income of every corporation engaging in business in this state, or deriving income from property, activity or other sources in this state. Any corporation engaged in business activity, both in West Virginia and in another state, will allocate and apportion its net income on the basis of a two-factor formula: property and payroll in West Virginia, as compared to the total property and payroll of the corporation. It should be noted, however, that because of the provided credit against this tax for the payment of Business and Occupation and/or Carrier Income taxes paid for the same taxable year, there will be little or no tax due under the corporate net income tax, in most cases.

C. The Carrier Income Tax is an annual tax on the gross income and also on the net income of certain carriers.

BUSINESS FRANCHISE TAX

All persons (whether corporations, partnerships or individuals) who engage in business in West Virginia must obtain a Business Franchise Registration Certificate at the cost of $15 for each location where his business activity is conducted. Businesses which generate gross income of less than $4,000 are exempt from payment although they must still file for and obtain the certificate.

CORPORATION CHARTER TAX

Each corporation which does business in West Virginia must pay an annual license tax on its charter. Domestic corporations pay this tax at an appropriate prescribed rate based on authorized capital stock. Foreign corporations pay the tax in like manner at rates based on the proportion of their issued and outstanding capital stock which is represented by their property owned and used in the state. The Secretary of State collects the first year's assessment upon application for a certificate of incorporation; thereafter, the annual tax is collected by the State Tax Commissioner.

Although nonprofit corporations are exempt from this annual charter tax, all foreign corporations and each domestic corporation which has its principal place of business or chief works outside the state must pay an annual fee of $10 to the Secretary of State as attorney-in-fact for such corporation.

SECRETARY OF STATE'S FEE

Both foreign and domestic corporations doing business in the State of West Virginia must register with the West Virginia Secretary of State and pay an Attorney Fee and Certificate Fee.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION TAXES

Levied on employers only, the various rates are applied to the first $8,000 of wages paid to each employee during a calendar year.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FUND

Subscribers' premium rates, per $100 of all employees' gross earnings, vary among industry groups.

GENERAL PROPERTY TAXES

Assessed by county assessors, collection is by county sheriffs and rates vary among and within counties.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX

A graduated scale of rates is applied to the taxable income of all resident individuals and on the West Virginia income of nonresidents. Corporations are exempt. The marginal rates range from 2.1% to 9.6%.

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION FEES AND TAXES

A certificate of title as well as an annual license fee is required. Rates vary according to size and value of vehicle. Fees are required for certification of title and for registration of motor vehicles. The registration fee varies according to the size and type of vehicle. A five percent tax on the value of the vehicle is levied on the privilege of affecting the certification of title of most motor vehicles.

CONSUMER SALES AND USE TAX

The rate is five percent on the gross proceeds of taxable retail sales. Purchases for use in trade of business are exempt. Food and prescription drugs are exempt.

CIGARETTE TAX

The rate is 17 cents per package of 20 cigarettes.

GASOLINE TAX

The rate is 10.5 cents per gallon.

TAX CREDIT FOR INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

The West Virginia business tax laws provide a credit against business and occupation tax liability of 10 percent of the cost of a qualified investment made for industrial expansion. This credit has been enacted to encourage the location of new industry and the expansion of existing industry.

The credit is applied over a 10-year period and results in the reduction of the business and occupation tax liability imposed upon the manufacturing classification of business activity and the generation or production of electrical power. For example, on a one million dollar qualified investment, the credit would be $100,000 or $10,000 a year for the first 10 years of operation. However, the annual business and occupation tax credit for industrial expansion will not reduce the tax liability below 50 percent of the tax as computed before allowing the credit. Therefore, this credit may offset up to 50 percent of the business and occupation tax liability.

There are qualifications and limitations to the tax credit:

a) The investment must be a qualified investment. An "industrial taxpayer" must place the property in service or use in this state. If the property has a useful life of eight (8) years or more, the industrial taxpayer will have a qualified investment for 100 percent of the cost of the property. However, if the useful life of the property is six (6) years or more, but less than eight (8) years, then 66-⅔ percent of the cost will be considered a "qualified investment." If the life is four (4) years, but less than six (6) years, then 33-⅓ percent of the cost may be included. The useful life of the property is determined as of the time the property is placed in service or use in West Virginia.

b) The property purchased for industrial expansion must be real property, improvements thereto, and tangible personal property constructed or purchased for use as a component part of a new or expanded business of an industrial taxpayer. Property acquired by lease for a term of 10 years or longer and used as a component part of the new or expanded business also qualifies. However, the cost of rented property shall be 100 percent of the rent reserved for the primary term of the lease, but not to exceed 20 years. Lease renewals, subleases or assignments are not to be included. Taxpayers engaged in multiple businesses, one or more of which qualify as the business of an industrial taxpayer, must apportion any expansion which was done for both qualifying and non-qualifying businesses.

INDUSTRIAL PARKS

The State of West Virginia is actively involved in a program which aids local communities in the acquisition and development of community owned industrial parks. New parks are being developed in an on-going program to assure close community cooperation for new and expanding industry.

ENVIRONMENTAL REGULATIONS

AIR, WATER, SOLID WASTE & NOISE POLLUTION

AIR POLLUTION CONTROL: The West Virginia Air Pollution Control Commission is vested with the authority to promulgate regulations to protect and improve the air quality of the state. Their purpose is to provide for a coordinated statewide program of air pollution prevention, abatement and control; to facilitate cooperation across jurisdictional lines in dealing with problems of air pollution not confined within single jurisdictions; and to provide a framework within which all values may be balanced in the public interest. Clean air is good business, and the West Virginia Air Pollution Control Commission has endeavored to develop a comprehensive program in the public interest.

Regulations promulgated since the inception of the Commission include:

I - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution from Coal Refuse Disposal Areas.
II - To Prevent and Control Particulate Air Pollution from Combustion of Fuel in Indirect Heat Exchangers.
III - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution for the Operation of Hot Mix Asphalt Plants.
IV - To Prevent and Control the Discharge of Air Pollutants into the Open Air which Causes or Contributes to an Objectionable Odor or Odors.
V - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution from the Operation of Coal Preparation Plants and Coal Handling Operations.
VI - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution from Combustion of Refuse.
VII - To Prevent and Control Particulate Air Pollution from Manufacturing Process Operations.
VIII - Ambient Air Quality Standards for Sulfur Oxides and Particulate Matter.
IX - Ambient Air Quality Standards for Carbon Monoxide, Non-Methane Hydrocarbons, and Ozone.
X - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution from the Emission of Sulfur Oxides.
XI - Prevention of Air Pollution Emergency Episodes.
XII - Ambient Air Quality Standard for Nitrogen Dioxide.
XIII - Permits for Construction, Modification, or Relocation of Stationary Sources of Air Pollutants, and Procedures for Registration and Evaluation.
XIX-Z - (Temporary) Requirements for Preconstruction Review, Emission Offsets, and Bubble Concept.
XXI - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution from the Emission of Volatile Organic Compounds from the Storage of Petroleum Liquids in Fixed Roof Tanks.
XXIII - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution from the Emission of Volatile Organic Compounds from Bulk Gasoline Terminals.
XXIV - To Prevent and Control Air Pollution from the Emission of Volatile Organic Compounds from Petroleum Refinery Sources.
XXV - Hazardous Waste Air Pollution Regulation

Proposed amendments to numbers VII and XIX-Z will be submitted at a public hearing on a date to be designated in May.

NOTE: Regs 14-18, 20 and 22 are enforceable. Please contact Air Pollution Control Commission for further information.

WATER POLLUTION CONTROL: The West Virginia Department of Natural Resources, Division of Water Resources, has the responsibility for maintaining and improving the water quality of streams and rivers in the state. General guidelines provide that all industry will be required to provide a degree of treatment that is equivalent to that required by municipalities on the same stretch of the stream. In no case will industrial waste be allowed in municipal treatment facilities if that waste will produce an effluent that is less in quality than the municipal effluent without the industrial waste.

A permit must be acquired prior to the construction of a treatment or disposal facility opening, reopening operation or abandoning of a mine or coal preparation plant; operation of a deep disposal well; or discharge of effluent from an establishment into waters of the state. Applications for permits for such installations may be obtained from the Division of Water Resources, and thirty days may be required for processing. (Applications for permits for wastes containing sewage only should be directed to the State Health Department.)

Water Quality standards have been established for all surface waters in West Virginia, and applications for permits are reviewed to assure that proposed effluents will not violate such standards. Information concerning waste loads may be required by the Division of Water Resources on a periodic basis.

All contacts relative to permits, emergencies, etc., should be directed to: Division of Water Resources, Department of Natural Resources, 1800 Washington Street, East, Charleston, WV 25305, Telephone 348-2107.

SOLID WASTE: The final Hazardous Waste Regulations developed by the Department of Natural Resources and the Water Resources Board were filed with the Secretary of State in March 1982 to become effective April 23, 1982. The Air Pollution Control Commission adopted Hazardous Waste Regulations April 6, 1982. Regulations required to be promulgated by other state agencies (Department of Highways, Department of Health, Public Service Commission and the Shallow Gas-Well Review Board) will be scheduled for public hearings or finalization during 1982.

NOISE POLLUTION CONTROL: Currently there are no specific regulatory agencies concerned with the subject of noise pollution other than the usual local law enforcement concerning public annoyances.

LABOR REGULATIONS

THE WEST VIRGINIA DEPARTMENT OF LABOR is divided into four specific categories to administer various labor laws of the West Virginia Code:

(1) The Occupational Safety Division has staff members which conduct regular inspection visits to factories, mills, workshops, stores, and other places of employment to determine that safety regulations are enforced, (1a) The Boiler Section fulfills the West Virginia law that requires "any person operating a steam boiler carrying more than 15 pounds per square inch shall first obtain a permit to operate a steam boiler from the Commissioner of Labor, or from an inspector working under his jurisdiction."

(2) The Consumer Protection Division is charged with the enforcement of weights and measures laws, bedding laws, false advertising laws and fair packaging and labeling laws.

(3) Wage & Hour Division enforces laws dealing with employment standards, which are as follows: Labor-Management Relations; wages, hours of labor, employment agencies, wages for construction. Cost of living and related statistical data are maintained.

(4) Labor-Management Relations: The Commissioner of Labor is authorized to investigate and mediate labor disputes, if requested by both parties, or if he offers to do so and both parties agree.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FUND is a monopolistic state fund administered by the Commissioner to pay: temporary total disability benefits; permanent and total awards; statutory awards and death benefits. A new rating system, effective July 1, 1975, utilizes an "experience period" to smooth out chance fluctuations in the experience record of the employer. A 25% limiting factor has now been put into effect on the amount an employer's rate may increase in any given year. Incurred costs are used when computing actual liabilities for employer's claims. Employers are permitted to have multiple classes.

For premium calculation, employers will first total the wages paid in each class. That amount will then be divided by 100 and the answer to the computation will be multiplied by the premium rate assigned to each class.

Effective July 1, 1975, coverage is "required" on executive officers of a corporation and coverage is "afforded" persons in the service of the State or any political subdivision thereof, whether elected or appointed. Partnerships or sole proprietorships may "elect" to be covered by giving written notice.

(Note: Essentially, the reserve base refers to inplace coal that is technically and economically minable at this time. It is not a fixed quantity but one that will increase with discovery and additional development, decrease with mining and change if the criteria for its calculation are modified. The figures are in millions of U. S. tons.)

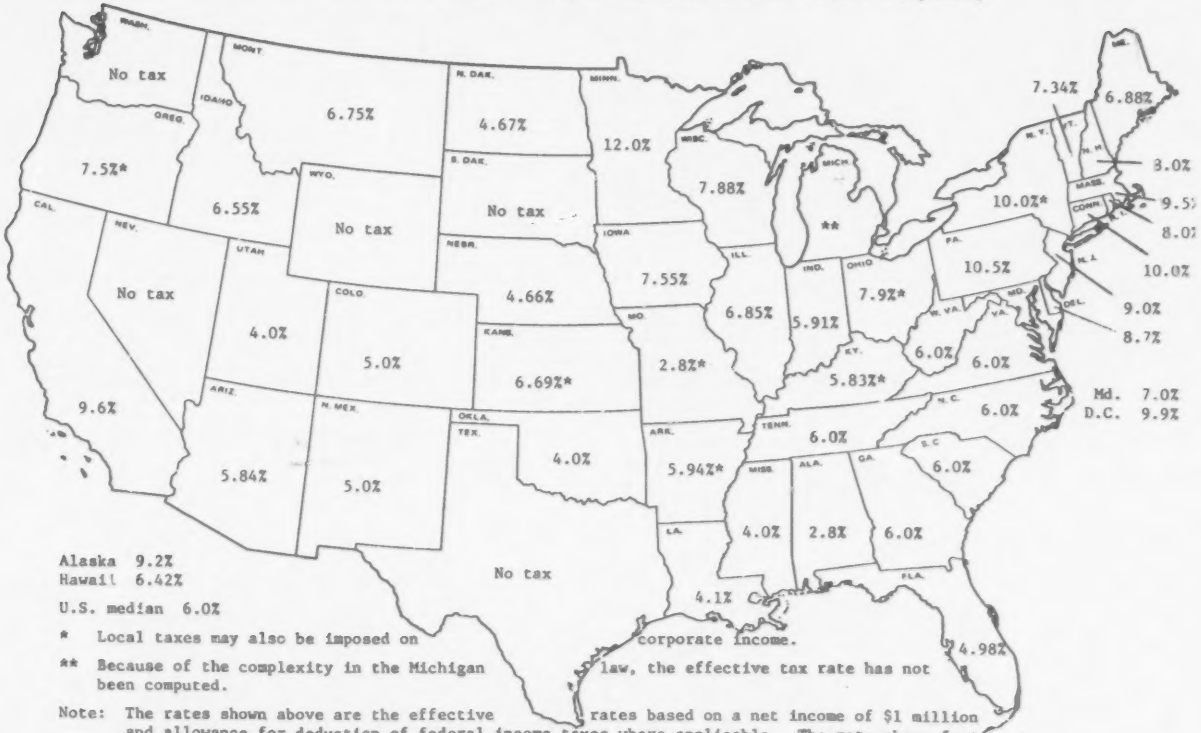
STATE CORPORATION INCOME TAX RATES, 1981
(Effective Tax Rate as a Percent of Net Income before Federal Income Tax Payments)



Alaska 9.2%
Hawaii 6.42%

U.S. median 6.0%

* Local taxes may also be imposed on corporate income.

 Because of the complexity in the Michigan law, the effective tax rate has not been computed.

Note: The rates shown above are the effective rates based on a net income of $1 million and allowance for deduction of federal income taxes where applicable. The rate shown for the U.S. is the median rate for the 50 states as a whole and the District of Columbia. Actual rates, by states, are shown in Appendix Table 2.

Computed by the Virginia Division of Industrial Development.

UNITED STATES CRIME

Besides a 9.4 percent rise in its crime index, the FBI's September 10 report on lawbreaking noted these developments in 1980...

Since 1976, daytime burglaries of homes rose 32 percent, street robberies 45 percent, and bank holdups 71 percent.

Handguns were used in 50 percent of the 23,044 murders.

Seventy percent of those arrested for crimes were under 25.

A breakdown of major crimes, most involving property...

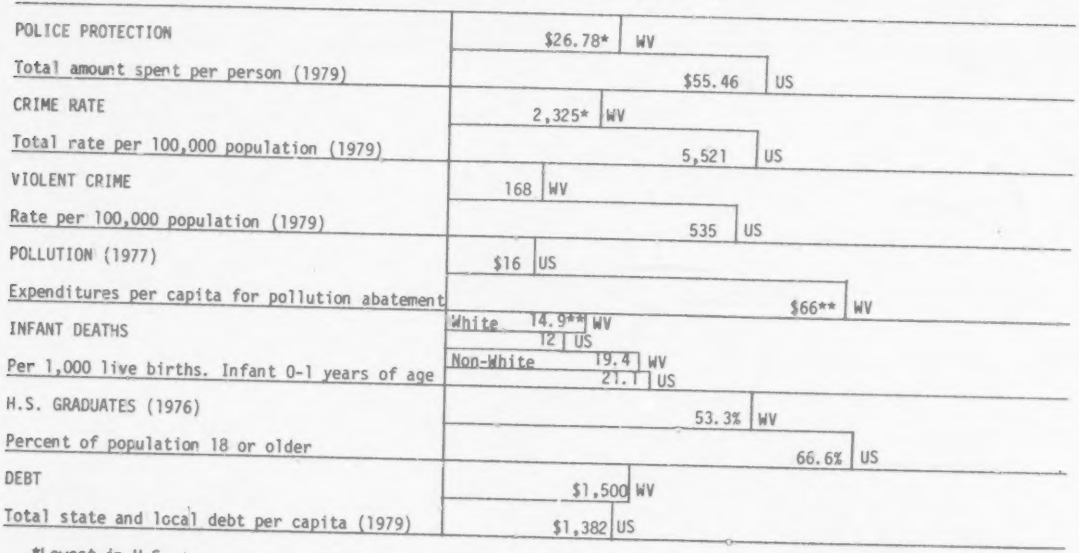
WEST VIRGINIA QUALITY OF LIFE STATISTICS



*Lowest in U.S.
Highest in U.S.

Other tables show that West Virginia continued to enjoy its No. 1 spot, as it has for several years, in terms of the least number of total crimes committed per 100,000 population.

The 2,325 crimes for the state compares with a high of 8,831 in Nevada and a national average of 5,521.

On the violent crime only list, West Virginia is ranked fifth in terms of the lowest number committed. However, there is another irony in that the number of violent crimes has been increasing in the state while the ranking has been improving.

The state was fifth from the lowest in 1979, with 168 violent crimes per 100,000 population, 12th in 1970 with 124 crimes and 17th in 1960 with 57 crimes. North Dakota was the lowest in 1979 with 61, and New York was high with 917. The U.S. average was 535.
